NERI and ENEL SOLE present Archilede S at Ecomondo 2013

The new product for street lighting created thanks to the collaboration between Enel Sole and Neri will be officially presented on 7 November at the Ecomondo trade fair of Rimini.

Here it is: The new product of the Archilede line by Enel Sole, created in collaboration with NERI has today made its official appearance at the Ecomondo 2013, the 17th international trade fair on Recovery of materials and Energy and Sustainable Development that takes place in Rimini from 6 to 9 November.

"Archilede S", this is the name of the new road lighting system designed by the company from Longiano and produced for Enel Sole, is a brand-new item that was born to meet a precise challenge: making a competitive product without having to renounce design, with simple and easy maintenance and great reliability. And, of course, excellent lighting.

The high quality of the light emitted in fact ensures not only an excellent colour yield, but also the uniformity and the absence of upward dispersion of the luminous flux.

Already visible today within the "Sustainable cities" of the Ecomondo trade fair in Rimini, it will be officially presented tomorrow, 7 November. The appointment is from 2:30 pm to 4:30 pm with "Technological innovation at the service of the Energy Efficiency", organised by Emanuele Sguazzi, Commercial Manager of Enel Sole and with the intervention of the president of NERI S.p.A. Antonio Neri. The presentation is in the context of the conference "Creations of Actual Efficiency. How to improve life and save money: the choices of a city".

Quality of light, low power consumption and remote management will be the guiding points for evolving the lighting concept toward "Smart street lighting".
